Project Abstract:

As outlined in this scope of work, each year UC Denver, the College of Architecture and Planning, will meet with the Heritage Partnership Program on or before November 30, 2006, to select a collaborative project(s). To accomplish these tasks, UC Denver will provide faculty experts and researchers to participate in this collaborative project(s), which will involve a wide range of activities, including:

- Historic American Building, Historic American Engineering Record, Historic American Landscape Survey documentation.
- National Historic Landmark site visits. The purpose of these site visits is to assess the condition and integrity of NHLs, including the completion of site visit reports. This information will be used by NPS for the preparation of the bi-annual report to Congress on the status of threatened and endangered NHLs.
- Consultation with tribes affiliated with NHLs and potential NHLs, including consultation regarding the traditional cultural properties throughout the Intermountain Region;
- Peer review of NPS documents, including NHL nominations and cultural resource reports;
- Presentations at NHL, and other NPS meetings and workshops;
- Assistance with organizing and holding conferences and meetings associated with NHLs, Historic American Building Survey and other NPS programs. This may include providing meeting rooms and materials. (The NPS will plan activities associated with these workshops and coordinate the scheduling of facilities with the UC Denver.)

Outcomes with Completion Dates:

List of Products: National Historic Landmark nominations, site visit reports; consultation with tribes affiliated with National Historic Landmarks (including potential landmarks) in the Intermountain Region; technical assistance on NHL and park cultural resource projects and peer review. Historic American Buildings Survey, Historic American Engineering Record, and Historic American Landscape documentation.
