Project Abstract: The National Park Service leveraged funds with the Greater Yellowstone Coordinating Committee to have the Montana State University, Center for Invasive Plant Management produce an interpretive booklet on the noxious weeds of Montana. This "pocket guide" promotes the ecologically sound management of invasive plants in western North America by promoting research and public education and facilitating regional collaboration and communication among researchers, educators, and land managers. Distribution will be Montana-wide, with emphasis on educational institutions.
Outcomes with completion dates: Pocket guide produced and distributed in 2002.
Keywords: Greater Yellowstone Area, noxious weeds, Greater Yellowstone Coordinating Committee
