Project Abstract: The NPS Archeology Program will partner with the University of Idaho to organize and implement the Archeology Webinar Series to be held in the Fall of 2013. The webinar will feature speakers conducting innovative research on North American archeological topics. The webinar series will benefit NPS archeologists and other interested NPS personnel, archeology students, avocational archeologists, and the general public wishing to learn more about advances in archeological knowledge.

The project will entail a partnership to arrange for speakers to participate in the webinar series and verify that there is webinar capacity available; post the webinars on the NPS Archeology Program website, and announce and advertise the availability of the webinars; and provide honoraria to webinar presenters.

The webinar series will commence at the beginning of October and run twice monthly until the end of December.

Outcomes with Completion Dates: March 31, 2015: Brief letter report is due detailing a biographical profile of the webinar speakers, the title and abstract of each presentation.
