Project Abstract:

The objective of this project is to provide an opportunity for scholars, park managers, writers, tribal members, students and the general public to examine and discuss current research in regard to the park's cultural resources and historic legacy.

Scope of Work

The University will

1. Collaborate with Glacier National Park staff to establish a date, location, and duration of a public symposium/conference on the park's cultural resources and history.
2. Collaborate with Glacier National Park staff, identify, contact, and organize a slate of academic, government, private sector, and tribal presenters (or others as appropriate) to participate as speakers, panelists or in other capacities to be determined.
3. Arrange for publicity, meeting space, audiovisual resources, and other logistical arrangements as necessary and agreed upon by the cooperator and the park.
4. Collect, organize and submit to the park all final papers, presentations (Powerpoint) and other material presented at the conference in order to provide a public record of the proceedings.
